Many individuals were from the Jewish community, born between the 1880s and the 1930s. Most had emigrated to England from areas of Eastern Europe including Austria, Lithuania and Poland. The transcripts include childhood memories and cover housing conditions, social life, events, education and religion. For some interviewees only the transcript survives. In other cases, the tape recordings have no transcript. Administrative History: Between 1973 and 1977 Jerry White interviewed residents who had lived at Rothschild Buildings, Thrawl Street (next to Flower and Dean Street), Spitalfields. His research was published in 1980 as book, part of the History Workshop series by Routledge and Kegan Paul. The following description is given in the publication (see Library reference: L6694): 'Rothschild Buildings were typical of the "model dwellings for the working classes" which were such an important part of the response to late-Victorian London's housing problem. They were built for poor but respectable Jewish immigrants from Eastern Europe...By talking to people who grew up in the Buildings in the 1890s and after, and using untapped documentary evidence from a wide range	1980s [1973 - 1977]
---------------------	---	--------------------------------

	of public and private sources, the author re-creates in a unique richness of detail the life of that community...' Rothschild Buildings were built in 1889 by the Four Per Cent Industrial Dwellings Company. The firm was founded by Lord Rothschild in 1885, to house poor Jewish families in model dwelling houses. In the London County Council 1929 and 1955 directory volumes one is referred to Charlotte de Rothschild's Dwellings which is the correct name. There were entrances to this block in both Thrawl Street (1-105) and Flower and Dean Street (106-228). The buildings were demolished between 1974 and 1975. The site of the buildings were replaced by the Attlee Adventure Playground, which was completed in February 1980 and managed by the Attlee Foundation, a registered charity. The site was replaced by Lolesworth Close and other developments, from 1982. Nathaniel Dwellings, Flower and Dean Street were built by the Four Per Cent Industrial Dwellings Company and opened in 1892. The blocks were demolished under slum clearance between 1973 and 1974. Some of the individuals who were interviewed by Jerry White had lived at Nathaniel Dwellings. Sources include: A Topography of Tower Hamlets c1700-c2000, M. F.
